Committee May Halt Hoffa's Drive

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 (AP)—The Senate Rackets Committee, it appeared today, may interrupt James R. Hoffa's campaign for the presidency of the giant Teamsters Union.

Hoffa, under intensive investigation by the committee, has asked that he be called before next Wednesday or that any hearings be postponed until after Oct. 10, when the union election will be over.

But Robert F. Kennedy, committee counsel, told newsmen today it would be impossible to hold a hearing before Wednesday. He said it would take a week to get ready—thus indicating any pre-election hearings would come the week of Sept. 22.

There is still a possibility, however, that Hoffa's presence will not be required, even if hearings are held. Kennedy said this point would be decided over the weekend.

He returned to Washington ready to give a report Monday to Chairman McClellan (D-Ark.) on a new eight-day probe into Hoffa's affairs in Michigan. McClellan is due here Sunday from Arkansas.

Kennedy told reporters he and a dozen investigators have had a "productive" hunt for evidence in Michigan, where Hoffa's home was.

Union Chief Blasts Bell Attitude

NEW YORK, Sept. 13 (AP)—Joseph A. Beirne, president of the Communications Workers of America, said tonight some 65,000 equipment installers will strike the Bell Telephone System Monday—unless the company changes its attitude.

Beirne made the statement in a speech over the American Broadcasting Company's national network.

He previously had called a walk-out for 6 a. m. (local time) Monday unless agreement on a contract is reached before then.

Beirne tonight said the company was taking an "arbitrary and uncompromising" attitude in negotiations with the equipment installers.

He spoke shortly after negotiations between the union and the Western Electric Co., recessed for the night. Western Electric is the manufacturing arm of the Bell system.

A company spokesman had said some progress had been made in negotiations.

A union spokesman said substantial concessions had been made to the company, but the company said the union's modifications of its demands were slight.

He said that in the wage area the positions remained the same, with the union asking 16 cents an hour increase and the company offering a range of five to 10 cents an hour, depending on classifications.

The union has been working without a contract since Aug. 26. A strike had been authorized but no date was set until Wednesday.

Western Electric employees now receive from $1.39 to $2.80 an hour. Involved are 23,800 CWA installers.

Beirne said a strike would directly affect 54,000 employees of the Bell system and would keep 200,000 from their jobs because of picketing.

A total of 45 states and the District of Columbia would be affected by a strike. Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire are not involved.

A strike would not immediately affect dial phone service.

Torrance Presents Resignation

HARRISBURG, Sept. 13 (AP)—Gov. Leader today accepted the resignation of James F. Torrance from the Turnpike Commission, effective last June 9.

Leader wrote Torrance telling him he accepted the resignation "in accordance with your request."

The governor said in a statement he received Torrance's resignation yesterday.

Chairman Torrance, former state Republican chairman who served more than 14 years on the commission, has applied for a state pension which would amount to $270.23 a month for the rest of his life.

Maynard Small, secretary of the State Employees Retirement Board, said that actual payment of pension benefits to Torrance has been held up by the Attorney General.

The Justice Dept. ruled that no pension could be granted until Torrance actually terminated his state service.

The application will be acted upon at the board's Sept. 24 meeting, Small said.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13 (AP)—Showman Mike Todd, who likes to do things in a big way, announced today he is going to entertain 16,000 guests in Madison Square Garden at a birthday party Oct. 17.

The date will be the first anniversary of the opening on Broadway of Todd's Oscar-winning film "Around the World in 80 Days."

Bulganin Accuses Turkey Of Poisoning Troops Near Syria In American Plot

MOSCOW, Sept. 13 (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin tonight accused Turkey of poisoning troops on Syria's border for what he called an American-planned attack.

Bulganin warned that military action there could lead to world conflict.

Bulganin's warning was in a personal letter to Turkish Prime Minister Adnan Menderes. It was delivered two days ago by the Soviet ambassador in Ankara. The text was broadcast by Moscow radio tonight.

He said the United States and other Western nations are seeking to stifle the independence of Syria since it swung into the pro-Soviet camp.

Letter Bulganin's letter said the United States plans to unleash military action against Syria and has assigned "a certain role" to Turkey.

"There are signs," the letter from the Russian leader said, "indicating that leading Turkish statesmen are evidently inclined to meet such plans halfway."

Bulganin's letter to Menderes pointed out that the Soviet Union lies close to the Middle East and said his country "cannot ignore" events so close at hand.

Turkey lies between Syria and the Soviet Union.

'Dear Mr. Motorist'

Memories Stay With Us Forever

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 13 (AP)—A letter addressed to "Dear Mr. Motorist" arrived at the Mirror-News.

"I am not writing this to you to remind you all over again," the letter said, "but to all motorists because school again begins."

"I want to prevent the tragedy that we have shared together—a mother and you, Mrs. Motorist."

"That day three sun-tanned little faces smiled as they waved me a happy goodbye and so importantly went on their way to school. I wanted to call them back to tell them how lonesome it would be."

Mr. Motorist, I wanted to kiss them once more... Then I saw you take that corner—tires screaming, car out of control.

"What was your hurry? Were you late for work? Were you angry at someone?"

"Surely not my three. I am sure you would not want to run your screaming tires over their happy faces intentionally, erasing forever the smiles they had for me."

"But, Mr. Motorist, children are very forgiving in life and—I'm sure—in death. They would if they could, put your hand and feel sad that because of one tragic moment you are left to live over and over again how your love of speed took three lives."

"I don't hate you any more. I feel sorry for you. I can still see those smiling little faces as they wave me goodbye."

The letter was signed, Under the signature this postscript: "Another year. And once again your flowers arrive. They are beautiful. Thank you."

The newspaper sent reporter Charles Neiswander to investigate. He talked with a close friend of the letter writer. She told him the letter was written four years ago on the first anniversary of the tragedy. It was written but never intended to be mailed to the man who was driving the car. The friend sent the letter to the paper, which printed it yesterday.

The motorist?

He still sends the mother flowers on each anniversary of the children's death.

And the mother?

She couldn't write a letter now. For in her mind she still waves goodbye to the smiling faces of her children.

The tragedy was too much.

She is in a mental hospital, hopelessly insane.

SEGREGATIONIST LEADER John Kasper, 27, is escorted by police (top, left) into City Court in Nashville, Tenn., to face charges of violating local ordinances. The Federal government also moved to obtain a new injunction against Kasper to end his racial agitation against integrated schools. None of his followers appeared in barricaded school districts and Mrs. Grace McKinley (bottom left), a Negro mother, escorted her daughter to class without incident. In Little Rock, Ark., the number of National Guardsmen was cut at Central High School and students danced on the grounds (bottom, right) as no Negro pupils tried to enter. Gov. Orval Faubus (top, right) of Arkansas confirmed that he would "counsel together" with President Eisenhower on the dispute.

Dynamite Fuse Burns Out At Home

EASTON, Md., Sept. 13 (AP)—A seven-foot fuse fizzled out today six inches from 10 sticks of dynamite in front of the home of two Negro boys who attend a newly integrated primary school.

Thomas Messick, a dealer in dynamite, said the latent explosive force was equal to a one-ton bomb. He expressed belief the home-made bomb would have destroyed or severely damaged three or four of the frame, duplex houses occupied by Negroes if it had exploded.

Governor Of Arkansas Arrives In Rhode Island For Conference With Ike

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 13 (AP)—Gov. Orval Faubus arrived in Rhode Island by plane tonight for a man-to-man conference with President Eisenhower on the naval base here—with the South.

The White House made it plain ahead of time that Eisenhower wanted to have his talk tomorrow on the naval base here—with the South.

Faubus and two companions landed at Providence, R. I. They were to spend the night there before tomorrow's meeting with the President—one that could go far to help ease Southern tension over mingling of white and Negro school pupils.

Before leaving Little Rock, Ark., center of the integration deadlock, Faubus described himself as optimistic about the outcome of his meeting with the President.

The White House refused advance comment but obviously was hoping for a best, too, in the belief that a start might be made toward charting the course of integration without violence and through legal channels.

Three of Eisenhower's chief aides were flying here tonight but they had no scheduled contact with Faubus' party pending tomorrow's conference. Overtures toward such a preliminary conference, however, had come from the governor's camp.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty announced the President's counsel, Gerald D. Morgan, would fly here from Washington tonight with Atty. Gen. Brownell and Sherman Adams, Eisenhower's chief assistant.

Hagerty said, however, the three would meet with no one tonight—not even the President. Rep. Brooks Hays (D-Ark.), who played a leading role in arranging the Eisenhower-Faubus meeting, had expressed a wish to talk beforehand with the White House staff members.

Good Morning!

The trouble with inferiority complexes is that the wrong people have them.

Government Drops Case Against Reds

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 13 (AP)—The federal government today dropped its case against the five district Communists, Steve Nelson, Benjamin Carathers, William Albertson, Irving Weisman and James Dolson.

They were indicted for the violation of the Smith Act, advocating the overthrow of the government by force.

U. S. Atty. Malcolm Anderson, in his request for the court to drop the case, said "x x x in the light of recent Supreme Court decisions x x x we cannot successfully retry the defendants on the basis of the evidence presently available to the government."

Federal Judge Rabe F. Marsh granted the motion.

The five were first charged with conspiracy to overthrow the government early in 1952. They were indicted on Jan. 18, 1952.

They were convicted by a jury on Aug. 25, 1953. The court of Appeals affirmed the conviction on June 13, 1955.

On Sept. 20, 1956, the government requested the Supreme Court to determine the truthfulness of the testimony of Joseph Mazzei, one of the chief witnesses against the five.

The Supreme Court ruled that Mazzei's testimony wasn't factual and ordered a new trial for the five.

Matinee Shot Postponed

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev., Sept. 13 (AP)—The first scheduled "matinee" shot of an atomic test device was postponed today within an hour of shot time.

Adverse wind conditions caused the 24-hour delay to 5 p. m. tomorrow. This was the second postponement.

The device, 19th of the summer test series, has the power of 10,000 tons of TNT. It is to be exploded atop a 500-foot tower.

Jackson Writes End Of History

The Reading Anthracite Corp. sent out notices to 25 families still living here to vacate their homes in 30 days.

Crisis Eases Suddenly In Syria

BEIRUT, Lebanon, Sept. 13 (AP)—The crisis that has hovered over Syria for a month appeared to be blowing away today without any of the basic reasons for the turmoil having been changed.

As the tension eased, Lebanon's Foreign Minister Charles Malik left for the United States with a message to President Eisenhower about Syria.

An official source said Malik hoped to have talks with both the President and Secretary of State Dulles and was "carrying a friendly message from President Camille Chamoun to President Eisenhower" spelling out in detail the "Lebanese viewpoint on conditions in the Middle East with emphasis on Syria."

Conferences

Before leaving, Malik conferred twice with Chamoun and once with Salah Garazi, general secretary of the Syrian Foreign Ministry who came here yesterday.

But the main thing which stirred up commotion in the Middle East had not changed Syria's pronounced pro-Soviet leanings.

Though it seemed clear Syria has not fallen under complete Soviet domination, fear persisted that she could still be swept into the Communist bloc's orbit.

It also seemed clear that the Syrian government, egged on by a pro-Soviet group of officers in control of the army and security forces, had no desire to change its policy of accepting economic and arms aid from Moscow. Only a change in government could overturn that policy, and for the moment there was no sign on the horizon that such a change would be made.

Students of the Middle East note it is not necessary for Moscow to convert Syria to communism to score a victory over the West. All the Soviet Union has to do is to keep her from cooperating with the West.

These quarters express belief that has been the Soviet objective in the Middle East ever since the Baghdad Pact was formed by Turkey, Iran, Pakistan, Iraq and Britain. Russia feared that pact would turn the entire Middle East against her.

Russia Turns Down Bid From U.S.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 (AP)—Russia has turned down a U.S. proposal for an immediate swap of television data but has agreed to talk over the whole broad field of cultural, scientific and technical exchanges.

State Department press chief Lincoln White told his news conference today that the meeting will take place in Washington late in October.

White said the Soviet Embassy agreed to this yesterday in a note handed the department by Sergei Striganov, acting head of the embassy.

He said the Soviet note brushed aside a specific U.S. proposal for an exchange of television experts in advance of the October meeting and progress. The Russians said this could be talked about in October along with other exchange ideas.

Ezekiel Performs Mission

By Newman Campbell

WHEN THE PROPHET Ezekiel was called to his mission, the captivity of his people had begun. King Jehoiakim for nearly three years had been a tributary of Nebuchadnezzar, and when he rebelled, the captivity began. We do not know what became of Jehoiakim, but he was succeeded by his son, Jehoiachin, who reigned for only three months when the great deportation took place. It was at this time that Ezekiel was taken captive.

We know little of Ezekiel except that he is called a priest, the son of Buzi, of whom we know nothing. As Ezekiel stood by the river Chedar, a word which means great river, and other captives, the heavens opened and the word of the Lord came to him, "Son of man, stand upon thy feet, and I will speak with thee."

"And He said unto me, Son of man, I send thee to the children of Israel, to a rebellious nation that hath rebelled against Me; they and their children have transgressed against Me, even to this very day."

"And thou, son of man, be not afraid of them, neither afraid of their words. . . . And thou shalt speak My words unto them, whether they will hear, or whether they will forbear; for they are most rebellious."

Then a hand appeared holding a scroll on which were written "lamentations and mourning and weeping." God warned Ezekiel that a great grief would come to him, but he was not to cry or mourn for the dead, but to go on with the work the Lord had set for him.

him. "So I spake unto the people in the morning," he wrote, and at even my wife died," but Ezekiel obeyed the Lord's command not to weep, but to continue his mission.

Ezekiel not only warned his people of the woes to come, but he, guided by Jehovah, was a comforter to his people, giving them words of cheer in their captivity, telling them that their God would again lead them into pleasant pastures. They were "like sheep without a shepherd," God had said. "They had strayed 'like lost sheep,' but 'I will bring them out from the people, and gather them from the countries, and will bring them to their own land.'"

"And I will set one shepherd over them, and He shall feed them, and He shall be their shepherd, even My servant David; He shall feed them, and He shall be their shepherd."

This 34th chapter of Ezekiel is one of the most beautiful in all the Old Testament, and the teacher should dwell upon it. David had been dead for 400 years. Who, then, should be their shepherd to lead them? Jesus Christ was a descendant of David, and this promise is a prophecy of His coming, Jesus "the Good Shepherd," as He is often called in the New Testament.

To a pastoral people like the people of Israel, the coming of a good shepherd meant that the Messiah would come to lead them as Jehovah promised and Ezekiel testified.

LOST BOY

Dry those tears, Sonny. The Law has brought you home.

But when you're grown up, don't get lost then—for the Law won't be able to bring you home!

Sure, grown-ups often get lost. They choose the wrong road, they take the wrong turn, they depend on the wrong ideas, they seek the wrong aims. And some of them get lost again and again.

Why can't the Law bring them home, too? Well, when a grown-up gets lost he generally does a lot of harm to himself and others. And then it's the job of the Law to protect people from the harm he is doing.

But, Sonny, when you grow up you're not going to get lost. We have thousands of churches for youngsters like you—and for your parents, too. Churches teach us to find ourselves before we have a chance to get lost.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Organization Pays Off

How an organization formed expressly to develop industrial expansion paid off in other directions during a disaster is told in the story of Lampasas, a small Texas town which came back bigger and better than ever after being flooded for the count of nine.

Surging flood waters from two nearby creeks swirled across the town square in Lampasas on the night of May 12. It left lambasted, soaked and silted streets and stores.

Now, only five months later, 90 per cent of the business section has been rejuvenated and some five million dollars in flood damage largely rectified.

For many of the town's merchants, getting their stores in shape was a rough and costly business. Eighty of them turned to the Small Business Administration for assistance, others to the local banks and several financed the job out of savings. Suppliers extended credit wherever needed and some even added to the orders without charge.

Worn, dark-stained store displays and counters have been replaced and new store fronts erected. Some merchants have expanded their storerooms. Old lighting fixtures have given way to sparkling fluorescents.

The recovery effort was sparked by Ward Lowe, editor of the weekly Lampasas Dispatch. He heads a committee organized prior to the flood to encourage industrial development and modernization.

This group grabbed the initiative after the waters receded and never stopped pushing.

"It was a matter of getting to work or just let the town die," recounts Lowe.

"It's amazing that not a single one of the merchants gave up and moved out."

Such is the good that came out of a body of civic-minded people, brought together originally to foster the growth of industry but available immediately for other purposes as well when disaster struck.

Merchants of the Pocono area who experienced a flood of their own two years ago can appreciate the tremendous job faced in Lampasas. They, too, recognize the timely assistance in the form of loans that came from all the local banks and the SBA that made possible the rehabilitation of the damaged stores, industries and other businesses.

Opinions Of Other Editors

Welcome To Senator Clark

Now that Congress has called it quits for the year, Sen. Joseph S. Clark plans to spend October touring Pennsylvania talking to the folks he represents in Washington.

That's a wise decision on at least two points. First, Mr. Clark owes his election in part to the fact that his opponent last fall, former Sen. James H. Duff, more or less came down with Potomac fever and lost touch with the voters back home.

In the second place, Senator Clark will have the chance to talk about his votes in the Senate and what he proposes to do in the future.

Mr. Clark appears to be a coming leader of the ever-growing liberal Democratic bloc so what he says will be important.

While home, Mr. Clark may want to answer a charge by Chairman George I. Bloom, of the Republican State Committee. Mr. Bloom said that Senator Clark put his name on more big spending bills than almost anyone in the Senate.

In view of the demand of the taxpayer for less federal dollar-throwing, Mr. Clark will have the opportunity to explain his stand on money matters.

He also has been accused of taking a soft stand on the bill that would remedy the famous Supreme Court Jencks decision. This required the FBI to open its files to accused Reds and the others. Some would like to hear Mr. Clark out on this.

George Sokolsky Says...

Israel's Problem

Israel is like the man in the middle. Whatever happens in the Middle East immediately affects Israel, even if it is a small country. Arab countries go after each other, as Syria is seeking to absorb Jordan at the present time, Israel has become one of Soviet Russia's targets for destruction because Soviet Russia wants no representative of Western civilization and of a high standard of living in the Arab world.

Jordan and Israel are more or less the same country, an area part of which was once called the Land of Canaan and at another time was called Palestine. Jerusalem is sacred to both Israel and Jordan and is divided between them.

The river, Jordan, noted in the Bible, runs between them in the north and when Jordan was founded, it was called Transjordan. Jordan can have no national economy and therefore survives with difficulty. For years, it received a subvention from Great Britain. It could survive in a partnership with Israel; it could survive in a partnership with Saudi Arabia.

It cannot survive in intimate relationship with Syria which wishes to absorb Jordan as a step toward the destruction of Israel. Syria is now a satellite of Soviet Russia which has armed the country for war against its neighbors.

Such small countries as Israel and Jordan find survival difficult while the giants maneuver to avoid war. In the present situation, Israel faces the fact that the United States, which is supposed to be in conflict with Soviet Russia's policy, is providing Jordan with arms to fight Syria. But those arms might be diverted to fight Israel. In a word, suppose the tables were suddenly turned and Jordan and Syria combined to divide Israel. Syria would use Russian arms; Jordan would use American arms.

Israel was fairly close to taking the Suez Canal from Egypt but the United States intervened and at the suggestion of the United States, Israel retired from Egypt which it had defeated in war. At the time there was much controversy as to what price the United States paid to save the face of the United States in the Middle East. The State Department has always maintained that it made no deal, but Israel said it had. Nobody has ever believed that Israel would have given up so much for no reason whatsoever.

The failure of American policy in Egypt and Syria is due to many causes, such as the intensification of Arab nationalism, the corruption of officials by Soviet Russia, the extreme competence amounting almost to genius of Soviet propaganda among the officers of the army and the intellectuals of all Arabic countries.

But even more significant, from the American standpoint, is the demonstrable fact that the United States had nothing to say to the Arabs that made any sense to them, except that we financed oil operations, where petroleum could be found, under terms that were more satisfactory to the Arabs than even they expected.

However, such financing only enriches the already rich. It does not percolate down to army officers or to professors in the universities, who are the articulate elements in these countries.

The Russians have made good use of the fact that the rich grow richer and the middle class grows poorer. To it, we have had no answer but to show pictures of American factories surrounded by workers' automobiles and such stuff which Arabs who do not own automobiles do not believe anyway.

One has only to read the texts of broadcasts in Arabic countries to understand the reasons for our failure. And then there is the picture that every Arab understands, namely, that Israel's policy has been faithful to the United States and that as a paying proposition that may not be as sound as being neutral between the United States and Soviet Russia. After all, it is each man looking out for his own skin.

Arkansas Travelogue: The Faubus Folies

Many people are mistaking a puny, passing, political clown, billed as the Governor of a great State, for a constitutional crisis. There is none. The issue is not whether Negro children shall be admitted to the public schools of Little Rock—that was settled—9 to 0—by the U. S. Supreme Court. The issue is not whether Arkansas—or any other State—can nullify a Federal Law—because tens of thousands of brave men from Arkansas have fallen in battle—defending that very Federal Union.

Nor is there any cause for hysteria. Faubus may be Governor of a State, but neither he, nor any other Governor, nor indeed, the President of the United States, has the right to order a National Guardsman to fire on the American flag. Faubus already exceeds his authority: His own Legislature has not acted, and the Mayor of the City he purports to be protecting condemns him.

Accordingly, this is not an act of rebellion by the People of Arkansas. It is merely the cheap and unauthorized antic of a ward-heeler who couldn't resist the chance for a brief national spotlight—even though the price was inciting to riot—through by oath he is sworn to keep the peace.

The headlines have magnified this mounthead into such a distorted image that the result would be laughable—if it weren't so hideous. Faubus is about as capable of shaking the Federal Union as a horsefly is of crushing a General Patton tank. . . . He was repudiated before he started, by the South, in Congress. . . . His facts are challenged by his own local authorities—officials for calling him a barefaced liar. He has as much authority to call out the National Guard at Little Rock vs. Integration, as the Governor of New York has to call out the New York National Guard to surround the Custom House—on the ground that the Federal Income Tax is unpopular in New York. . . . Such an act isn't important constitutionally; it does not represent the will of the people of Arkansas. It is merely the silly act of a publicity-seeking politician, who by his lack of proportion simultaneously demonstrates his own gigantic ego, his pitiful stature as a statesman, and his own total inability to discharge the duties of the office to which he was mistakenly elected.

The Supreme Court, in its opinion, left to the people of the South the orderly settlement of the integration problem. . . . So, too, the problem of Faubus should be left to the people of Arkansas. After they speak at the next election, it will no longer be the National Guard barring the way to Negro children; it will be the people of Arkansas barring the Governor's mansion to Faubus.

There was a report that "Sugar Ray" had been knocked out in a bout with one of his executive staff, but this was denied. "We had one pretty rough round staged for my board of directors and at one time I was dropped to one knee by a clipping from the Wall Street Journal, but I was not hurt," he said.

"Sugar Ray's" daily grind begins when the alarm goes off at 5 a.m. He springs swiftly out of bed, rebukes the alarm-clock maker and threatens to call off work the rest of the week. He is pacified by a steak breakfast, a perusal of the closing market prices and a reading of the U.S. Treasury Statement. He then does his roadwork insisting that it takes place over a new billion dollar highway instead of the old country road. An attempt to get him to do a few miles on the rural road is met with threats of litigation. He then returns to quarters, answers letters from the revenue department and puts in an hour of grueling conversations with his economists. Lunch is followed by a nap. He leaves orders nobody is to disturb him except Midas. This is followed by stiff shadow boxing, which is highlighted by a sudden and dramatic charge that his shadows are not getting the legal protection expected.

He punches the bag again but calls it off to phone his attorneys that the bag is not the one called for in Paragraph IV, Article X. They advise him to stop bag punching and do some more roadwork. He agrees to do this if it is specified that the road will pass the courthouse and the local Law Library. He wants it in writing.

The situation with Carmen Basilio is somewhat different. Basilio's camp exudes a mood of what seems comparative destitution. In his workouts he seems unharmed by the money situation but is extremely nervous and keeps asking his seconds to check and see if Sugar Ray has made any new threats to call everything off. He confines his training to the orthodox routines with no intensive bookkeeping and no complaints that he is denied push-button legal assistance. In fact he trains without any help from the American Bar Association and permits no J. P. Morgan men in the camp. He seems calm and cool except when Robinson's name is mentioned. This should go down in history as the BATTLE OF THE "PER-CENTURY." There will be a preliminary contest between two fleets of Brinks' armored cars. To your corners, and come out calculating!

The Once Over by H. I. Phillips

"Sugar Ray" Robinson will fight Carmen Basilio, further hassles excepted, and is reported economically fit and ready, with one of the best last quarter earnings statements of 1957. He has trained hard in some of the larger law libraries and has followed the rugged routine provided for by Dow-Jones. "I am ready," he declared as his legal staff skipped rope for him, "for the best financial expansion of my career. 'He can't miss,' said his business advisor, punching a bag vigorously.

There was a report that "Sugar Ray" had been knocked out in a bout with one of his executive staff, but this was denied. Chief, U. S. Weather Bureau

Washington, Sept. 13: As soon as there are definite indications that a hurricane is forming, even though it is a thousand miles or more from the mainland, the storm is given a name and the Weather Bureau begins issuing "advisories."

These advisories are issued frequently throughout the day and night and tell where the storm is, how intense it is, its speed and direction of movement. These messages are radioed to ships at sea so they can steer clear of the storm, and to small isolated islands in the storm's path so they can take precautions.

Hurricanes are large revolving storms accompanied by violent destructive winds, heavy rains, and high waves and tides. Hurricanes originate in all tropical ocean areas except the South Atlantic, and usually move from low to higher latitudes with increasing speed, size, and intensity.

The winds whirl counterclockwise (in the Northern Hemisphere) in the storm, with the highest speeds in a circular band beginning at the edge of the "eye" and extending out 20 to 30 miles or more. In this area, the winds may reach 150 miles per hour with brief gusts of even higher speeds.

At the center there is usually a small, cloudless core from 5 to 20 miles across. This core is called the "eye," since the sky is often clear or only partly cloudy and the winds are usually very light.

The area of destructive winds along the path of a hurricane may be from 25 to 500 miles wide.

As the storm develops and moves forward, it may traverse a path several thousand miles long, as measured from its birthplace in the Caribbean or Tropical Atlantic until it moves inland over the continent, or blows out into the North Atlantic.

While the winds of the hurricane are blowing at great speed around the center, the entire storm may move forward very slowly and sometimes even remain stationary for a short time.

This is especially true while the hurricane is in the tropics, where the forward speed is usually 15 miles per hour or less. As the hurricane moves farther from the tropics, the forward speed usually increases and in extreme cases may reach 30 miles an hour or more.

Most hurricanes are accompanied by torrential rains which cause additional damage by flooding and destroying crops, washing out roads and bridges, and flooding lowlying communities.

The record amount of rainfall associated with a hurricane in the United States was at Taylor, Tex., in September 1921, when 23.1 inches of rain were recorded in a period of 24 hours.

The average life of a hurricane is about 9 days.

For the past 70 years a median of 4 hurricanes per year have occurred. This increased to 5 hurricanes per year in the past 30 years, and in the past 10 years to 7 hurricanes per year.

During the past 70 years, the greatest number of hurricanes in any one year was 11 in 1916 and 1950.

No hurricanes were observed in 1907 and 1914.

In 1893 and again in 1950, 4 hurricanes were in progress at the same time in either the Gulf of Mexico, the Caribbean Sea, or the Atlantic Ocean.

In the Gulf of Mexico, Caribbean Sea and Atlantic Ocean area the first hurricane of the year is identified by a girl's name starting with the letter A; the second hurricane is designated by a girl's name starting with B, and so on for all the remaining hurricanes that come along during the year.

Rarely are there enough hurricanes in this area, over a single season, to use up more than half of the 26 names in any complete alphabetical list.

In the Pacific Ocean a somewhat similar but separate naming system is used to identify tropical cyclones of typhoon intensity. Because the Pacific has a much larger number of tropical storms each year, four sets of girls' names are used, and in a continuous fixed sequence without regard to the calendar year or season.

The first typhoon in the Pacific during each season is assigned the name directly following the last name used during the previous season. When all 84 names have been used, the entire Pacific list is repeated again starting with the first name in the first set.

Suggestions have been made that we designate hurricanes by numbers (1-23), by English letters (A-B-C), by Greek letters (Alpha-Beta-Gamma), by boys names (Arthur-Ben-Christopher), by the phonetic alphabet used by our military services during World War II (Able-Baker-Charlie), by the International Civil Aviation Organization's phonetic alphabet (Alfa-Bravo-Coco), by the names of animals (Antelope-Bear-Coyote), or by descriptive adjectives (Annoying, Blustery, Churning).

But it soon became evident that the use of girls' names, in written as well as in spoken communications, was shorter, quicker and less confusing than older, more cumbersome latitude-longitude identification methods. These advantages were especially important in exchanging detailed storm information between hundreds of widely scattered stations, airports, coastal bases and ships at sea.

It also became evident that the use of easily remembered names greatly reduces confusion when two or more tropical storms occur at the same time. For example, one hurricane can be moving slowly westward in the Gulf of Mexico, while at exactly the same time another hurricane can be moving rapidly northward along the Atlantic Coast.

In the past, confusion and false rumors have arisen when storm advisories broadcast from one radio station were mistaken for warnings concerning an entirely different storm located hundreds of miles away.

The names used in alphabetical succession for identifying tropical storms are selected in advance by Weather Bureau, Air Force, and Navy meteorologists. It should be emphasized, however, that the names of particular individuals are not chosen for inclusion in the list of hurricane names.

Area Farms Listed In Publication

by Jim Riley

Monroe County is well represented in the 1957 publication of "Farm Vacations and Holidays."

This booklet is published by Farm Vacations and Holidays, Inc., which has its headquarters in New York. The Monroe County list includes Brookmont Acres, Effort; White Swan, Effort; The Getz Farm, Kunkletown; Poccano's Twin Oak, Kunkletown; Mountain Rest Farm, Effort; Tranquillity Farm, Kunkletown; The Robbins Farm, McMichael; Greenlawn Guest House, Gilbert, and Harvest Moon Farm, Effort.

Also on the list are Pocono Charn, Saylorsburg; Hillcrest Farms, near Stroudsburg; Wieland's Pocono Valley Farm, Kunkletown, and Lake Mount Farm, Saylorsburg.

Among the Northampton County listings is Oxford's Dairy and Poultry Farm, Bangor, and Whispering Pines at Eddie's Farm, also Bangor.

Bobby Tweedie celebrated his third birthday on Thursday with a big party.

Bobby is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Tweedie, 102 W. Broad St., East Stroudsburg.

Related congratulations are certainly in order.

Charley Ehrwood, 710 Sarah St., Stroudsburg, recently spent several days in Canada on a fishing trip.

Charley is employed by Patterson-Kelley.

Don Allen, Daily Record reporter who covers the court house and police beats, celebrated a birthday yesterday—Friday the 13th.

He is rooting for the St. Louis Cardinals, too.

Dick Merring and Joe Chase, who were interested spectators at last weekend's golf exhibition at Pocono Manor, are reportedly showing their form on the links.

The East Stroudsburg twosome soaked up enough knowledge to be a real golf threat—or threat to golf.

Charley Dieter is cautiously moving up to a birthday tomorrow—but he's being careful not to mention the number on the parade of years.

Charley lives in the Snyder'sville area.

Inside Washington

Senate Democrats Hopeful

By Henry Cathcart

Central Press Writer

Washington — Senate Democrats, still aglow over William E. Proxmire's surprise victory in Wisconsin, are convinced now they will materially increase their four-vote margin over the GOP next year in the regular congressional elections.

Senators in 1960 — Meanwhile, looking two years beyond 1958 to the 1960 presidential year, there are eight Democrats sitting in the Senate who will figure prominently in the contention for the party's presidential and vice presidential nominations.

Whereas the Democrats have never nominated a senator for top spot on the ticket, 1960 may see precedent broken.

A quick run down shows that Kennedy, Lyndon Johnson of Texas, Estes Kefauver and Albert Gore of Tennessee, Stuart Symington of Missouri, Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, and Joseph Clark of Pennsylvania, may be carefully eyed as presidential timber.

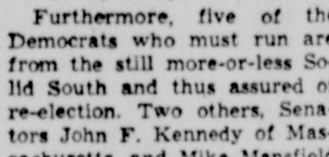

In addition, three prominent Democratic governors — Muskie of Maine, G. Mennen Williams of Michigan and George Leader of Pennsylvania — may bid for Senate seats and all three figure in 1960 political speculation.

Senator Proxmire They jubilantly note that in 1958, of the 32 Senate seats at stake, 20 of them are now held by Republicans, only 12 by Democrats.

Furthermore, five of the Democrats who must run are from the still more-or-less Solid South and thus assured of re-election. Two others, Senators John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, and Mike Mansfield of Montana, seem to be shoe-ins. Senators Stuart Symington of Missouri, John C. Stennis of Mississippi, and Henry M. Jackson of Washington, are heavily favored to defeat any opposition the GOP may offer.

Democratic analysts insist that all of the 20 Republican seats involved next year are in danger of being annexed. GOP strategists won't concede this point but privately admit that some of their seats are doubtful.

Included in the doubtful category are Senators William

Behind The Scenes

In Hollywood by Harrison Carroll

Hollywood — What started out to be a fishing trip turned into an adventure for Rhonda Fleming and Dr. Lew Morrell when their boat ran out of gas in the middle of a Canadian lake just as a sudden storm came up, pelting the Hollywood pair with hailstones almost as big as eggs.

After drifting four hours, they finally were rescued when a seaplane passed over and Rhonda attracted the attention of the pilot by waving her sweater.

Communications Strike May Not Be Felt In Monroe County

Bell Official Releases Statement

A THREATENED strike of the Communications Workers of America, CIO, is not expected to directly affect telephone service in this area.

John Ford Jr., acting manager of the local Bell Telephone Co. branch last night released the following official statement from State Bell headquarters:

"The dispute is between the Communications Workers of America-CIO and Western Electric, Employees of Bell Telephone Co. of Pennsylvania are not involved. None of the unions representing employees of Bell Telephone is involved in the dispute."

Ford declined to make further comment on the present controversy. The CWA has said it intends to pull its workers out on Monday unless an agreement is reached with Western Electric. No WE employees are permanently stationed at Stroudsburg Bell but a small crew of installers is now on duty in the local company office. It was learned last night.

Picket Lines
If picket lines were stationed at the local office some effect could be felt where business routine is concerned. But chances seem slight that any major interruption of phone service would occur in this area.

Staff members in management, during past disputes, have been alerted to take care of phone service on an emergency basis. In cases involving disputes with unions not representing Bell employees it is left up to the individual union whether or not its members will honor a picket line.

Business office staff union contracts with Bell have a no work stoppage clause in them. Operators' union contracts have also previously contained no strike clauses.

$2,000 Damage In Route 611 Wreck

AN ESTIMATED $2,000 property damage was caused in a two-car collision on three-lane Route 611, Foxtown Hill at 4:15 p.m. yesterday. One man was hospitalized.

Stroudsburg State police gave these details:

Clarence Edgar Grover, 19, of Jim Thorpe, was traveling north over Foxtown Hill about one mile south of Stroudsburg. Grover told police he attempted to pass another vehicle and was forced into the third lane.

This brought him directly into the path of a car operated by William A. Monahan, 41, of Bridgeport, Conn. The cars collided in a sideswipe fashion as Grover swerved; the front of his car hit the left side of the other vehicle.

Damages to the cars: An estimated $800 to the Grover car which was demolished; an estimated $1,200 to Monahan's vehicle.

Norman R. Huey, 34, of Fairfield, Conn., a passenger in Monahan's car, was taken to General Hospital. He is being treated for scalp cuts and a fractured right kneecap, sources there said. He will be in the hospital about 10 days, police indicated.

Others who were injured but not hospitalized: Kenneth G. Mann, Jim Thorpe, owner of the car Grover was driving, forehead cuts; Monahan, left rib fractures; John Gillin, 35, of Natick, Mass., a passenger in the Monahan car, knee cuts.

Clarification Necessary In Story On Tax Vouchers

THE DEADLINE for applying for rebate on 1955 taxes on flood-damaged properties was nearly a year ago. This clarification was made necessary by the vague phrasing of one paragraph of yesterday's story headed "Nearly All Tax Vouchers Questioned."

The paragraph in question read: "County Solicitor Achtenman yesterday issued a plea to property owners who were affected by the flood and wish to apply for rebate of taxes paid in the year of the flood to do so immediately."

Point
The story should have pointed out that Achtenman referred only to taxpayers who now have vouchers in hand. No more applications can be received or made since the deadline is past. Some taxpayers who received vouchers from the office of the chief assessor still have not processed the forms. Achtenman said last night. It was to this processing that the solicitor referred and not to applications, which are no longer legal.

U.S. District Deputy Marshall Leo Feigenbaum from Pittsburgh, picked DeAganellis up yesterday afternoon and took him to Scranton to appear before Justice Harry Carlton.

Ball
DeAganellis couldn't raise $1,000 bail which was set by Justice Carlton and is now in the Scranton City Jail awaiting further investigation.

DeAganellis has one previous arrest also for tax evasion. Tax evasion is a federal charge and a prison sentence can be given.

The woman was taken to the hospital in the Barrett Township ambulance. Miss McGovern was the owner and operator of the car. The accident occurred on a curve in the road, police said.

New Floor Care Ends Waxing

One of the difficult jobs of housekeeping is to wax linoleum and asphalt tile floors. Now, thanks to Glaxo, it's no longer necessary to wax and scrub; just apply Glaxo about twice a year. It maintains a high luster, non-slip coating that seals out dirt. Glaxo dries in one hour and is water clear. It's cheaper than wax in the long run, besides, saving a terrific amount of work, plus truly a beautiful floor.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

There are times when it doesn't pay to be too efficient. The women who used the first week of school to wash and put away all the summer things had their whole family yammering for something cool to put on when they came home from school or work.

Put away the screens too soon and we have a late hatching of flies and mosquitoes. Do the shopping for a full week's menus and everybody is invited out three or four times, the refrigerator stays jammed up with unused food.

All of which are rather unconvincing arguments I'm preparing to use on Saturday morning to persuade myself that the items I put on that list of things to do aren't really necessary. Of course if I were a PTA-aged mother I'd have my excuse all ready made — that school of instruction this afternoon.

Speaking of the PTA, one of the newer members sent me a copy of the PTA prayer used to open each of their meetings. Maybe you'd like to read it.

"Heavenly Father," It begins. "Thou who art our Creator and our God, we thank thee for all the blessings thou hast bestowed upon us, more especially for the children and our relation to them. We ask that Thou wilt endow us with wisdom and strength as we care for and nurture them."

"May we be thine instruments to lead our children to a realization of thy power and thy love."

"Bless Thou our fellowship as we work for the children of our land. Lead us in steadfastness and faith toward the solution of the great problems that confront our world today. Consecrate us to Thy service and to the service of all children everywhere."

Scholarship Awarded First Soroptimist Grad Nurse

Like a proud mother, the Soroptimist Int. of Monroe County heard the news that their first scholarship nurse to graduate, Miss Lois Butz of Tannersville, had been selected by the Women's Medical College Training School from which she was graduated, for a scholarship to the University of Pennsylvania. She will study for her BS degree in Nursing to prepare for a teaching career.

The club also heard from its other student nurses. Audrey Treibler who will complete her training at Lankenau Hospital next Spring and from Maxine Gravel who is in her first year at Methodist Hospital in Philadelphia.

The nursing scholarships are a major project for the woman's quota service club.

Woman's Club To Sponsor Brownie Troop, Plan Bazaar

Newfoundland — A Brownie Troop for girls in the seven to nine age group will be sponsored by the Greene-Dreher-Woman's Club, according to plans developed during the September business session of the unit led by Mrs. A. V. Lupo.

The troop, which is expected to be organized this month, will be led by Mrs. Ethel Wohlfort. The major fund-raising project of the year for the club will be a food bazaar and boiled ham dinner at the school on Saturday, October 12, it was decided.

Members of the local club who plan to attend the Northeast District meeting on September 20 at Irem Temple may make reservations with Mrs. Anne M. Smith or Mrs. Lupo, it was noted.

Also planned was the Wayne County Federation of Women's Club session at Newfoundland on October 18. Dinner will be served by the Ladies Aid of the Moravian Church at the church, with the business session following. Reservations should be made before October 14 through Mrs. Smith or Mrs. Lupo.

There will be no local session in October because of the county meeting. The next meeting will be held on November 12, with members meeting at the school for a trip to Holly Ross

GUEST FROM INDIA—and of the Stroudsburg Woman's Club is Miss Trivedi Rama Ishvarrai, here shown with Fred Waring at Shawnee Inn. She will speak Monday at the Portland Woman's Club meeting, and will be honored by the local club at a coffee before she leaves the county end of September.

The Wyckoff Shopper

The Friendly One

Wyckoff

"He's a nice person, isn't he? He looks like a minister if you know what I mean—as though he's at peace with himself."

I knew exactly what my friend meant in his reference to Peter Heiden whom he had just met in our Wyckoff advertising office. Peter Heiden DOES look at peace with himself . . . as though he finds the world in which he lives and the circle in which he moves, very pleasant, beautiful things to be. As a matter of fact, one of the most remarkable things about a Peter Heiden painting is that, as you look at it, you become re-impressed with the beauty of all that surrounds you.

Mr. Heiden's paintings have been exhibited at Wyckoff's for at least thirteen or fourteen years. In our Tea Room, in some of the offices, and at our annual Wyckoff art show, and I was happy to have him as a guest on our Wyckoff Shopper radio broadcast of Thursday morning. I am only sorry there was not more time in which to discuss the recent painting trip to Bar Harbor, Maine, from which he returned with a carload of seascapes and other studies.

While Mr. Heiden is willing enough to talk about his art, I think he would prefer, at this point, to discuss the trip itself, when his friends and he camped out in various government parks. He was greatly impressed with the caliber of the men and women who visit these camping grounds, and their high standard of conduct—particularly their honesty. He feels too, that many families do not know about the splendid facilities for casual, inexpensive living these parks afford . . . or how pleasant such a vacation can be.

Mr. Heiden is a great friend of Angelo Vianello, whose paintings have been meriting the enthusiastic entrance of visitors to our Tea Room this summer, and he is deeply pleased to see the ever-increasing interest in art being shown by the public of this area. There is no doubt about it . . . a great many average persons, like myself, who once felt that oil paintings, and related works of art, were for only the very wealthy, now believe that art is for everyone . . . that even when one must pinch pennies here and there to own a lovely painting, it will return its cost to the household many times in an ever-deepening sense of satisfaction. To me it is very gratifying to see a local organization raising money for its scholarship fund by means of a painting by a Monroe County artist . . . and to learn that numerous artists are willing to sell paintings "on time," so to speak, to those with limited means who really appreciate them. It is exciting, too, to realize that art has come so far in Monroe County during the past few decades, the artists themselves are working toward the procuring of a permanent home of their own—a house of culture that would serve both those who appreciate art and those talented enough to produce it.

If Peter Heiden looks like a man at peace with himself . . . this much I can say: that same look of contentment can be seen on the face of almost any person who stands before a painting, and finds his or her spirit in tune with its beauty. That is the gift of art . . . and we should cherish it.

Hattie Walters has shown me a delightful new line of boxed gifts that just arrived in our domestic department—unusual and charming gifts, priced at 1.98 and 2.98. For 1.98 one can buy a cute Redwood tray, complete with imported decorative salt and pepper shakers, and two pretty kitchen towels . . . a painted cutting board with two towels . . . a Redwood Leave a Note plaque, complete with pad and pencil, and two towels . . . or a recipe holder (also a wall plaque) that could be used equally well for plants or mail, and two towels. . . . At 2.98, there are packages containing a redwood shadow box with Bambi figurine, three kitchen towels, and wooden salt and pepper . . . a set containing ceramic vinegar and oil cruet, wooden salt and pepper, and three towels . . . or a ceramic French poodle set of vinegar, oil, salt and pepper, and three towels. Just between us, I never saw so much value for so little!

Veterans who have not previously applied for this bonus may obtain applications by writing to Russell Johns, Supervisor, Pennsylvania World War II Veterans' Compensation Bureau, Room 207, South Office Building, Harrisburg.

Col. Freeland stressed the fact that this is not a new bonus but an extension of the deadline for filing applications for those who have not filed previously because of conditions beyond their control.

Col. Freeland said, "while applications are now being accepted, it is earnestly requested of all applicants that they examine and check their records to make sure they have not filed previously before they make an application at this time."

Hot Lunch Program In 12th Year

THE National School Lunch Program enters its 12th year of operation this month, and the number of meals is expected to top the one billion 800 million served in the past school year.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture, in reviewing last year's figures, says it took a total of 415 million dollars worth of food purchases to provide the school lunch meals. In addition, about 147 million worth of farm foods were donated by the Department, mostly out of surplus price-support stocks. And the youngsters drank 445 million quarts of milk with their lunches — plus another 437 million quarts at other times under the Federally-sponsored Special Milk Program. Of course, all milk is bought locally.

Although administered nationally by the Department's Agricultural Marketing Service, school lunch programs are primarily locally sponsored and supported. Last year, total Federal contributions — cash and commodities — amounted to 230 million dollars. But across the nation, total expenditures were more than three times that amount — and the other 70 per cent came from State and local sources.

USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service reported that of a total appropriation of $160 million, which Congress provided for this year's program, $83.6 million has been apportioned among the 48 States, District of Columbia, and the territories and possessions — Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, Guam, and the Virgin Islands. The funds will be paid out in quarterly installments.

The funds are apportioned on the basis of the number of children between the ages of five and 17, inclusive, and the need for assistance in the State as indicated by the relation of the per capita income in the United States to the per capita income in the State. These funds are used to reimburse schools in part for their local food purchases.

In addition to the funds apportioned, $15 million is available to USDA for the purchase and distribution to schools of foods which help to meet the nutritional requirements of school children.

The law requires that each dollar of Federal funds disbursed by State agencies to schools must be matched by $3 from sources within the State if the per capita income in the State equals or exceeds the national average. The matching requirement for any State with a per capita income below the national average is decreased by the percentage which the State's per capita income is below the per capita income of the United States as a whole.

The National School Lunch Program is administered in the States by State departments of education in accordance with agreements between those departments and USDA. The program enlarges the market for farm products and improves the diet of the nation's school children by helping participating schools to serve nutritionally balanced lunches. Last year, approximately 1.8 billion meals were served to 10.8 million children in 57,546 participating schools.

New York ranks first in the amount of money supplied by the Federal government, $5-131,452; Texas is second, $4-763,185; Pennsylvania is third, $4,544,279; and California fourth, $4,364,106.

Total funds for the Special Milk Program for Children have not been announced but the allocation to Pennsylvania is 110 percent of the funds used last year. Last year's total for Pennsylvania was $2-378,260.31. Both the School Lunch and the Special Milk Programs will be administered this year by Clyde A. Zehner, Room 344, of the Department of Public Instruction.

Mr. Zehner reports that 54,400 new appetites will be satisfied at the school lunch tables this year.

ACTRESS MAUREEN O'HARA shakes hands with singer Dorothy Dandridge (right) in a Los Angeles court after they had denied under oath that there is any truth in stories printed about them in Confidential Magazine. Miss O'Hara branded a love-making episode in a theater a lie and said she only visited the movie with her brother twice during the time in question. Miss Dandridge called the Lake Tahoe articles on her "absolutely untrue."

Prosecution Depending On Two Celebrities In Court

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 14 (AP)—The prosecution is depending on two celebrities "with axes to grind" in its effort to convince Confidential magazine of conspiracy to commit criminal libel, the defense said today.

Defense attorney Arthur J. Crowley said actress Maureen O'Hara and singer Dorothy Dandridge testified as prosecution witnesses because of libel suits they had filed against the scandal magazine.

"The only two celebrities upon the prosecution put on the stand were two who had axes to grind," Crowley told the jury as he neared the end of his closing argument in the six-week-long trial.

"I think Miss O'Hara gave quite a convincing performance," he said. "She wants to collect five million dollars in her libel suit against Confidential."

Miss O'Hara filed the suit over a story titled "When Maureen O'Hara Cuddled in Row 35." This story has been a major issue of the hard-fought trial.

The Irish-born actress testified she was in Europe at the time the article said she and a "Latin Lover" were necking in a Hollywood theater.

"She said she had never been in the theater with anyone other than members of her family."

"Dorothy Dandridge had a good reason for getting up there," Crowley said. "Confidential has withdrawn its settlement of her suit."

The Negro singer had testified she did not engage in a woodland tryst with a white band leader as alleged in the Confidential story titled "What Dorothy Dandridge Did in the Woods."

Miss Dandridge filed a two-million-dollar libel suit against Confidential. It was settled for $10,000.

Crowley said he felt that the prosecution had not proved there was a "joint evil intent" on the part of the defendants—Confidential and Whisper magazines, Fred and Marjorie Meade, Hollywood Research, Inc., and Publishers Distributing Corp.—to conspire to commit criminal libel and to publish lewd and obscene material. He said such an intent was required to support the conspiracy charge.

DL & W, Erie Enter Into Agreement

CLEVELAND, Sept. 13 (AP)—The Erie and the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroads have entered a joint trackage agreement which will eliminate one set of tracks running between Binghamton, N. Y., and Gibson, N. Y.

An Erie Railroad spokesman said today the Lackawanna will pull up its tracks over the 75-mile stretch and will use the Erie tracks. He said the joint trackage agreement, if approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission, will mean savings in the maintenance and cost of operating 125 miles of track.

Under an operating agreement yet to be finalized, the Erie and Lackawanna will share expenses for signal changes and other changeover expenses. On the other hand, the spokesman said, the two roads will share the savings from the elimination of the Lackawanna trackage.

Sixty trains a day will run over the Erie's double-track main line when the tracks of the two roads have been consolidated.

The co-ordination in this area has no connection with merger talks being conducted by the Erie, the D & W and a third railroad, the spokesman said.

"Dorothy Dandridge had a good reason for getting up there," Crowley said. "Confidential has withdrawn its settlement of her suit."

The Negro singer had testified she did not engage in a woodland tryst with a white band leader as alleged in the Confidential story titled "What Dorothy Dandridge Did in the Woods."

Miss Dandridge filed a two-million-dollar libel suit against Confidential. It was settled for $10,000.

Crowley said he felt that the prosecution had not proved there was a "joint evil intent" on the part of the defendants—Confidential and Whisper magazines, Fred and Marjorie Meade, Hollywood Research, Inc., and Publishers Distributing Corp.—to conspire to commit criminal libel and to publish lewd and obscene material. He said such an intent was required to support the conspiracy charge.

Judge Rules Against Strike Of Teachers

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Sept. 13 (AP)—A Superior Court judge ruled today that an eight-day strike of more than 400 Pawtucket school teachers is illegal and set 10 a.m. tomorrow for entrance of a decree formally setting a temporary injunction against the work stoppage.

Judge G. Frederick Frost indicated the 10,000 pupils in this industrial city of 85,000 were the chief concern. They have been on an extended summer vacation because of the wage dispute.

"Turning a large number of children of school age upon the streets," the judge said, "means that many will gravitate toward trouble of one sort or another. To close the schools is giving the children a push towards juvenile delinquency."

Spokesman for the teachers, who are members of the Pawtucket Teachers Alliance, did not say flatly they would return to their classrooms, but a national representative of the American Federation of Teachers with which the alliance is affiliated, indicated they would do so.

Judge Frost found that the teachers are an integral part of the government of the city. They are employees of the government and have no legal right to strike against the government, he said.

The alliance, in its latest proposal to the school committee asked for an immediate $500 raise this year $500 more next year. The present maximum is $5,400 a year.

The school board held out for a three-year contract which would raise the maximum to $5,675 this year, $5,875 next year, and $6,075 the third year.

Husband Charged With Killing Wife

FREESBURG, N. Y., Sept. 13 (AP)—Donald Warner, 22, was charged with first-degree murder today in the fatal beating yesterday of his bride of three months.

Chautauque County Sheriff Charles G. McCloskey said Warner had signed a statement admitting that he killed his wife, Wilfred, 18, by hitting her on the head with a board.

Warner told police he became angry when she refused to return home with him.

The woman's body was found in a bathtub at her mother's house where she reportedly had spent the night after quarreling with her husband Wednesday at their home in nearby Jamestown. The body, fully clothed, was in about 10 inches of water.

Warner did not explain why he put her body in the bathtub.

Warner waived examination at his arraignment before a peace justice today and was ordered held for grand jury action.

He was arrested by Pennsylvania State Police earlier today as he was driving towards Jamestown to give himself up. He had telephoned Jamestown police and told them he was coming. They notified the Pennsylvania authorities, who arrested him near Oil City, Pa.

Expectant Mother Suffers Burns

SLATINGTON, Pa., Sept. 13 (U)—A 21-year-old expectant mother was burned in a fire following an explosion which badly damaged three homes here today.

Firemen from surrounding communities fought the fire which was brought under control in about an hour and a half. Witnesses said the fire was preceded by a terrific blast which blew out the front of a two story frame house.

Hurled Into Field

Mrs. Shirley Fritz was hurled about 25 feet into a field by the blast, police said. She was removed to Palmerton Hospital where early reports indicated her condition was not serious.

The cause of the blaze was not immediately determined. Fire officials believe it may have been caused by a defective oil burner.

The flames spread rapidly to adjoining homes. One fireman was overcome by smoke. The firemen were hampered in efforts to extinguish the blaze by a lack of water pressure.

Carbondale Bank Official On Probation

SCRANTON, Pa., Sept. 13 (U)—A 66-year-old former bank official who pleaded guilty to creating a $40,000 shortage in his accounts was placed on probation and fined $1,000 in Federal Court today.

U.S. District Judge John W. Murphy said David Conaughton, former cashier and executive vice president of the Liberty Discount and Savings Bank, Carbondale, had made full restitution to the bank. Because of his outstanding previous record as a citizen, the judge said, he would not send him to jail.
